Why So Many Exchanges?

"WHY do you build exchanges at so many different points in the same city?" a subscriber asks. "Why not have one big exchange serving the whole city?"

There are two basic reasons for multiplying exchanges. Every operator at a switchboard has to be within arm's length of all the numbers. She must be able to connect you with any number asked for. The reach of the normal operator limits the capacity of the switchboard to 10,000 lines. Hence, as the city grows, new exchanges must be built.

The other reason is economic. The pair of wires connecting your telephone runs, not only to the street but right to your Central office. If there were only one central office in a big city the length of subscribers' lines to that single exchange would make the initial cost and the upkeep and repair cost prohibitive. There are also important engineering reasons for multi-exchange development, but the above two are fundamental.

EAGLETS.

Dr. M. Leininger, the popular dentist, who, with his sons, conducts the well-known dental parlor at 1286 Milwaukee avenue, in the Palatine Building, is one of the progressive and wide-awake citizens of the Northwest Side.

McKenzie Cleveland, the able former judge, is a man who is never afraid to stand up for what he believes to be right.

Joseph A. O'Donnell, former legislator and park commissioner, is one of the most popular members of the Chicago Bar.

John W. Eckhart, the popular Democratic leader would make a good governor of Illinois.

R. C. McWhorter, the popular president of the Acme Box Company, has a host of friends in Chicago who would like a chance to vote for him for Mayor or some good office, where his splendid executive abilities could be of service to the people.

Richard Francis Condon, the popular chairman of the Elks Membership Committee is confident of adding 2000 new members to the rolls of the organization this year.

Charles E. Ummach, president of the well known R. Williamson Company, is one of Chicago's progressive citizens who is always working hard for the upbuilding of the city, and the advancement of its interests. He stands high with everybody who knows him.

Charles Kruttsch always made a good public record.

William O. Hawkins, manager for the big coal company of Richards & Sons, is one of the most popular and wide awake business men of the city. He is a leader in the trade and all who have had business dealings with him respect him.

George W. Paulin, the great furrier, has made a business record for honesty and integrity that wins for him hosts of friends.

William H. Baker made a good record on the Sanitary Board.

Adolph Kraus is always in the lead of every movement for the betterment of conditions in Chicago.

Judge D. E. Sullivan has made an honest, dignified and able record on the bench.

Alfred B. Horder, the well known stationer, is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and one of the veterans of Chicago's crack First Regiment. He is popular in the business world.

Samuel R. Kaufman the popular president of the famous Congress Hotel Company and head of the great Congress Hotel, is one of the most public spirited citizens of Chicago who is always keenly alive on everything uplifting the city and a broad minded man of affairs who makes everyone who patronizes his hotel happy.

Dixon C. Williams has high honors awaiting him at the hands of the people.

John W. Eckhart has done much to build up the Iroquois Club. He makes a success of everything he undertakes.
